Eastern—Wall street experienced a stock panic yesterday....There is talk of a strike on the New York surface railroads....A report on the condition of the buildings in Charleston has been issued....Old California—New York are arranging for their annual celebration of the gold discovery....George D. Hart, workingmen's candidate, has been elected Mayor of Lynn, Mass....There is a rather exciting tilt in the House between Mr. W. H. Dall of Colorado and Mr. Preston H. Leslie who has been nominated for Governor of Montana....J. E. Rosenfeld has been arrested at Denver for forgery and embezzlement....The Blue Wing is sold yesterday in Lexington, Ky. for $7,600.

Foreign—There is another great rush in Mexico for the Patti opera....N. M. Pig iron is on the rise in Europe....N. M. Duro, a Radical, has been elected President of Switzerland....The people of Manila are agreed to join in forming a new State, "Great Bulgaria," with Prince Alexander as King....Merlatti completed his fifty-day fast in Paris yesterday, and was in good condition....The African coast from Senegal to Lamor, has been ceded to Germany.

Pacific Coast—Twenty carloads of Eastern excursionists entered the State by the southern route yesterday....Yesterday morning a fiendish plot was made to burn down the house of a prominent Shasta county, after robbing the house....A man named Olivais was dangerously shot near Santa Paula, but will give no particulars....C. O. Buckley is on trial at Merced for arson....Petroleum has a new name....Mr. E. McCloud was in a day at Napa....The Coroner's jury in San Francisco has charged Superintendent McCord, of the Sutter Street Railway, with the murder of Heins....It is reported that a collision of freight trains occurred yesterday on the Union Pacific Railroad, and that four men were killed....John H. Snyder was convicted in San Francisco yesterday of rape....Another rate war is imminent among the transcontinental lines.

ANOTHER LESSON.

In all this matter of advancing the interests of Central and northern California let us not permit our enthusiasm or zeal to run away with our judgment. There should be in all our presentation of the claims of the region, broad and fully supported as they are, something of the dignity and gravity of statesmanship rather than the heat of the advocate. There is, in short, just such a thing as overdoing in all this matter. The word "boom" is itself unfortunate, and ill applied in any case of progress that relates to permanency. It rather conveys an idea of craze, nervousness and ebullition, that must subside.

Central and northern California we all want fully and rapidly developed, but let us in our anxiety not forget that the people of the East are observers.

They know that like motives, as a rule, actuate the people of our common country, whether Californians or residents of the Atlantic slope. Advocacy that passes the limit of earnestness is very apt to excite suspicion of the motive behind it.

Let us work with all the energy and vigor and earnestness we can command, but with such dignity as shall give character to our sincerity. There is no limit to what we can do; the work at hand is almost immeasurable, and the promised rewards rich and ready. But this well-doing must not take on even the faintest shading of the tactics of the mere advocate. Our cause rises superior to any methods that in the slightest degree might incline people to look upon it with any suspicion.

RIGHT is our contemporary, the Alta, which it exclaims: "The Citrus Fair at Sacramento will be a revelation to Eastern visitors, to whom 'northern California' has had a polar and a chilly sound, associated with northern New York, northern Illinois and northern Iowa. The fact is, California is the only State in the Union in which, climatically speaking, we know no north, south, no east, no west; for it is all a winterless land, given to bloom and fruit and verdure the year round." Yes, it is right to the smallest letter that records the expression. Let it add, and of all this winterless land, the great valleys of the Sacramento and San Joaquin, and the coast about and north of San Francisco and the foothills of the Sierra and Coast Ranges are the heart and vital. Let it add that from the low long of the great San Joaquin to the orchard groves where fruits look up to the frosty paws of old Shasta, there is a warm and generous land hundreds of miles in extent, waiting for a population of millions—people with means, love for home, industries, willing to tickle mother earth to see her laugh; people who will be of us as well as us.

The news that the Eastern roads have agreed to pro rate with California roads in the transportation of fruits, and that the prospect is good for fast and cheaper transportation of fruits, has had a stimulating effect upon fruit-growers. If it shall all be finally settled upon we will probably witness the opening of a new era in fruit culture and marketing in California. The fruit men have learned more in the last few weeks concerning the right methods to adopt in conducting their business than they knew from all years of their prior experience. It looks now as if they would avail themselves freely of this knowledge, and get fruit marketing into such a channel as will prove an immense saving to the producer, and thus greatly enhance the fruit industry, and of course benefit all other business in the State to which it is in the remotest degree related.

HIGH-PRICED ORANGES.

RECORD-UNION: In our issue of December 11th we notice a quotation from the Los Angeles Press of the 14th says Lincoln county, on the Carolina line, is in a state of great disorder, and is likely any of Los Angeles to produce the like. On Tuesday, November 30, 1886, in Rocklin, there were sold from Dana Perkins' grocery two oranges, each weighing over $2 apiece. The gentleman making the purchase picked the fruit from the tree with his own hand, and is willing to state that they were not tied on, and, although we do not know his name, he is ready to offer any person in Los Angeles to him, any time they may wish us to substantiate our statement. So let southern California be put on notice. It can be sold at Rocklin, two oranges for $4, and a Plum two was presented with $40 of the money thus received. We have plenty more of the same kind of oranges, and although having brought them at a high price, we have not even sent any to the Citrus Fair, now being held at Sacramento, being more than satisfied that Central and northern California will present oranges that southern California will not attempt to equal. So let it be known, and we trust this it he can, for forever after hold his peace.

EYE-WITNESS TO THE SALE.

Rocklin, December 13, 1886.—A deer killed with a rock.—Last week, while R. D. Williams was at work in Jim Crow canyon, a deer came along close by him. Having no gun at hand he threw his hat at the animal, but without hitting it. He then turned his attention to a rock pile and actually killed the deer with rocks.—Douglasville Messenger.

PACIFIC COAST.

TWENTY CARS OF EXCURSIONISTS IN ONE DAY.

FIENDISH PLOT AGAINST A SHASTA FAMILY—MCCORD CHARGED WITH MURDER—RAILROAD COLLISION.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE RECORD-UNION.]

FIENDISH WORK.

NARROW ESCAPE OF A SHASTA FAMILY FROM CREMATION.

COTTONWOOD, December 15th.—A most wholesale murder was committed in west of this town this morning about 4 o'clock, at the residence of Mrs. Ludwig, a wealthy widow. Mrs. Ludwig's brother was sleeping in a room upstairs, was awoken by a report of gun shot. Rushing down stairs, he found the house on fire, which he succeeded in putting out. Five gallons of oil had been used to satiate all the lower rooms with the intense heat, but had not reached the whole family. The perpetrators had been to the house with jewelry, money and valuables, but dropped them in the yard and fled. One of the domestic was arrested as an accomplice.

CALIFORNIA.

PROBABILITY OF ANOTHER RATE WAR.

SAN FRANCISCO, December 15th.—A meeting of the railroad agents was held this afternoon at the station to determine a rate of freight to be charged on a temporary basis. It was agreed to join in forming a new State, "Great Bulgaria," with Prince Alexander as King....Merlatti completed his fifty-day fast in Paris yesterday, and was in good condition....The African coast from Senegal to Lamor, has been ceded to Germany.

PACIFIC COAST.—Twenty carloads of Eastern excursionists entered the State by the southern route yesterday....Yesterday morning a fiendish plot was made to burn down the house of a prominent Shasta county, after robbing the house....A man named Olivais was dangerously shot near Santa Paula, but will give no particulars....C. O. Buckley is on trial at Merced for arson....Petroleum has a new name....Mr. E. McCloud was in a day at Napa....The Coroner's jury in San Francisco has charged Superintendent McCord, of the Sutter Street Railway, with the murder of Heins....It is reported that a collision of freight trains occurred yesterday on the Union Pacific Railroad, and that four men were killed....John H. Snyder was convicted in San Francisco yesterday of rape....Another rate war is imminent among the transcontinental lines.

A JURY LOCKED UP.

SAN FRANCISCO, December 15th.—The weather indications for the twenty-four hours commencing at 4 A. M. December 16th are: Cloudy weather and rain, except fair weather in the southern portion of the State.

LEARNING BY EXPERIENCE.

SAN FRANCISCO, December 15th.—The striking car-men had a procession this afternoon, parading along both Sutter and Geary streets. A number of police officers accompanied them. The men were very orderly and engaged in no manifestations whatever. The quiet along both Geary and Sutter street roads remained undisturbed all day.

THE VISITING RAILROAD MEN.

LOS ANGELES, December 15th.—Colonel Crosson, who spent the day yesterday in the New York Society of California Pioneers, a branch of the Martinelli's Fifth Avenue Restaurant. The programme arranged is a most attractive one. A strong orchestra will furnish music; a well-known orator will speak on society in the brilliant scenes of the day, 49, 49, and 5. J. Burdett, the humorist, will give entertainments. Many prominent men have been invited and are expected to be present.
